

National Tribune Patterns.

A Trim Suit.

Nos. 3009-2994.—The economical woman will find more economy in a trim tailored suit through its satisfactory appearance on all occasions and its endless usefulness than in any other gown of her outfit. Here is a very attractive model, being one of the latest productions of the designer. The coat

A Box-Plaited Sailor Suit.

Nos. 3010-2786.—Here is a charming model for an every-day frock for a maiden which has much to commend it. Box-plaits are always popular and are more modish than ever this season.

has two stitched tucks, back and front is double-breasted and finished at the neck and wrists with trim velvet collar and cuffs. Tiny tucks stitched to some distance above the rolling cuff give the effect of a deep cuff. The skirt is a pretty 11-gored model, having plaits at flounce depth at each side seam. It may be in round or short round length. Kersey broadcloth, any of the novelty suitings or taffetas will prove satisfactory as material. In a medium size, 7 1/2 yards of material 44 inches wide will be needed for developing this pattern.

Two patterns: 3009, 5 sizes, 32 to 40 inches bust; 2994, 6 sizes, 20 to 30 inches waist.

The price of these patterns is 20 cents for both, or either will be sent on receipt of 10 cents.

A Garment That Bespeaks Comfort.

No. 2828.—Mildly demands a kimono that shall combine grace, comfort and beauty, and the accompanying illustration shows a garment which is the embodiment of all three. The fullness falls in soft folds from rows of shirring and the resulting long lines lend height to a short figure and dignity to a tall one. One of the delightful Oriental silks or crepes, which the war has made so popular, will develop this pattern well. A dull-blue silk figured sparingly in red and trimmed with bands of plain silk to match is a suggestion for both color and texture, while countless other fabrics and color schemes can be used with equally good effect. The material required for medium size is 4 1/2 yards 27 inches wide.

Pattern No. 2824 in 6 sizes, 32 to 42 inches bust.

A Simple Frock.

No. 2957.—An endless array of inexpensive and attractive materials make it possible for the young girl's wardrobe to be one of pleasing becomingness while not costing a large amount. The accompanying model is one very simply constructed and girlish in its style. It may be developed in serge, challis or henrietta. A deep yoke is a stylish feature, and the full body part that may be continued by a trim belt is laid in box plaits. The Dutch neck and full puffed sleeves which are provided for in this pattern will look very pretty in this small party frock. For the medium size the pattern calls for 3 1/2 yards of 36-inch material.

No. 2957, sizes, 3 to 8 years.

Any one, or all, of the above patterns will be promptly mailed, postpaid, upon receipt of 10 cents for each pattern. Each number represents a separate pattern. Give size, number, name and address. It is not necessary to write a note if the following coupon is properly filled out.

Fashion Department, National Tribune, Washington, D. C.

For the inclosed . . . cents send me the following patterns:

No. Size No. Size

No. Size No. Size

No. Size No. Size

No. Size No. Size

No. Size No. Size

No. Size No. Size

No. Size No. Size

No. Size No. Size

No. Size No. Size

No. Size No. Size

No. Size No. Size

No. Size No. Size

No. Size No. Size

No. Size No. Size

No. Size No. Size

No. Size No. Size

No. Size No. Size

No. Size No. Size

No. Size No. Size

No. Size No. Size

No. Size No. Size

PENSION POINTERS.

Inquiries Answered and Suggestions Made.

C. M. C. Dawson, Iowa.—Neither temporary nor permanent residence in a foreign country will interfere with a soldier's right to pension for service rendered during the rebellion, if otherwise entitled.

G. F. T. Midland Park, N. J.—Since you are now receiving pension under the general law for loss of limb, your age will not entitle you to additional pension, the "age" law coming within the provisions of the Act of June 27, 1890.

A. J. J. Petoskey, Mich.—If the soldier mentioned by you was less than 15 years of age at enlistment, and enlisted prior to his 18th birthday, it is believed that the War Department would not remove the charge of desertion that ground, for the reason that he must have stated under oath that he was 18 years of age, or he would not have been enlisted.

Reader, Aurora, Ill.—To give the wife title to one-half her husband's pension under the Act of March 3, 1899, she is required to show that she is a woman of good moral character and to establish the fact by satisfactory proof. The Pension Bureau holds that if the woman is addicted to the use of intoxicating liquor and profane language and cruelty to soldier's children, she is not of moral character.

Subscriber, Lynn, Mass.—If the soldier was subject to fainting spells, and as a workman he ascended a high ladder or scaffold of a building in construction, from which he fell while unconscious in a faint, receiving injuries which resulted in death, we are of the opinion that the Pension Department will hold that death was due to soldier's negligence.

D. J. S. Soldiers' Home, Danville, Ill.—A wife may draw one-half of her husband's pension, if he deserts her more than six months and she is in necessary circumstances, or if she is of good moral character, or she may draw one-half of his pension if he is an inmate of a Soldiers' Home. Date of marriage is no factor in this, as a husband is bound to provide for the support of his wife, no matter when they were married.

M. J. H. Kansas City, Kan.—If the soldier enlisted for three years and left the service after two years, his brother taking his place and enlisting in his stead, his name at roll call, and is regularly mustered out with organization, it is doubtful whether either would have been entitled to pension. The brother having been mustered in but not mustered out but mustered into title to pension, however, is in favor of the brother, as it has been held that mustered-in is not a positive requirement. On the other hand, it is doubtful whether mustered-in would be held to the same standard, as the brother went through no form of enlistment.

The New French Blouse.

No. 2824.—Never have the separate blouses seemed so altogether fascinating as at present. The sheer materials which the importer shows in such wonderful array make those waists especially attractive. The cretion, which here could not fail to increase the charms of any wearer. White crystal silk serves for the entire waist, while the skirt is of a contrasting material, with two stitched tucks, back and front is double-breasted and finished at the neck and wrists with trim velvet collar and cuffs. Tiny tucks stitched to some distance above the rolling cuff give the effect of a deep cuff. The skirt is a pretty 11-gored model, having plaits at flounce depth at each side seam. It may be in round or short round length. Kersey broadcloth, any of the novelty suitings or taffetas will prove satisfactory as material. In a medium size, 7 1/2 yards of material 44 inches wide will be needed for developing this pattern.

Two patterns: 3009, 5 sizes, 32 to 40 inches bust; 2994, 6 sizes, 20 to 30 inches waist.

The price of these patterns is 20 cents for both, or either will be sent on receipt of 10 cents.

A Garment That Bespeaks Comfort.

No. 2828.—Mildly demands a kimono that shall combine grace, comfort and beauty, and the accompanying illustration shows a garment which is the embodiment of all three. The fullness falls in soft folds from rows of shirring and the resulting long lines lend height to a short figure and dignity to a tall one. One of the delightful Oriental silks or crepes, which the war has made so popular, will develop this pattern well. A dull-blue silk figured sparingly in red and trimmed with bands of plain silk to match is a suggestion for both color and texture, while countless other fabrics and color schemes can be used with equally good effect. The material required for medium size is 4 1/2 yards 27 inches wide.

Pattern No. 2824 in 6 sizes, 32 to 42 inches bust.

A Simple Frock.

No. 2957.—An endless array of inexpensive and attractive materials make it possible for the young girl's wardrobe to be one of pleasing becomingness while not costing a large amount. The accompanying model is one very simply constructed and girlish in its style. It may be developed in serge, challis or henrietta. A deep yoke is a stylish feature, and the full body part that may be continued by a trim belt is laid in box plaits. The Dutch neck and full puffed sleeves which are provided for in this pattern will look very pretty in this small party frock. For the medium size the pattern calls for 3 1/2 yards of 36-inch material.

No. 2957, sizes, 3 to 8 years.

Any one, or all, of the above patterns will be promptly mailed, postpaid, upon receipt of 10 cents for each pattern. Each number represents a separate pattern. Give size, number, name and address. It is not necessary to write a note if the following coupon is properly filled out.

Fashion Department, National Tribune, Washington, D. C.

For the inclosed . . . cents send me the following patterns:

No. Size No. Size

No. Size No. Size

No. Size No. Size

No. Size No. Size

No. Size No. Size

No. Size No. Size

No. Size No. Size

No. Size No. Size

No. Size No. Size

No. Size No. Size

No. Size No. Size

No. Size No. Size

No. Size No. Size

No. Size No. Size

No. Size No. Size

No. Size No. Size

No. Size No. Size

No. Size No. Size

No. Size No. Size

No. Size No. Size

use or possession of the soldier's sole for purposes of parade, Reunion, presentation or the like. I have no hesitation in advising you that such act by any of the Grand Army of the Republic officers offends the statute. Respectfully yours—Julius M. Mayer, Attorney-General.

The 24th Iowa Reunion.

Editor National Tribune: The 24th Iowa Reunion, held at Jeffersonville, Ind., on Sept. 20 and 21. Over 100 Iowa veterans, some coming from South Dakota, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Ohio and California, besides a goodly number of non-Iowa comrades, were present. An unusually interesting occasion. The spirit of comradeship appears to be the prevailing sentiment. The program consisted of addresses by comrades, interspersed with appropriate music, were held in the afternoon and evening. The evening of the 20th the Opera House was filled with the veterans and their friends. The program consisted of an address of welcome by the Mayor of the city, followed by a speech by T. E. Blanchard, of Co. A, now residing at Los Angeles, Cal. This was followed by a speech by Captain J. H. Smith, of the 24th Iowa, who then read a historical sketch of the 24th Iowa from its organization to the time of its participation in the battle of Cedar Creek, including the battle of Cedar Creek, the siege of Fort Fisher, and the battle of Champion's Hill. The respective comrades were addressed by a number of the veterans, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of the graves of the fallen. The program was continued by the respective comrades, including the principal among which was an address by Capt. W. T. Rigby, of Co. B, now a resident of Chicago, Ill. He related the story of the 24th Iowa during the war, showing the position of the various regiments during the siege and the location of the monuments provided by the respective States, and the location of